As a part-time CF developer and part-time stay at home father, I've found it next to impossible to blog. I've been learning a lot of new things lately, though, and thought that I should attempt to share them with anyone who cares to listen.

So I'm finally blogging. I'm currently doing a lot of cool stuff with Transfer, and I'm going to find it hard to blog much, but I'm going to make an effort.

I have learned so much from other people's blogs that it's time to start giving back.
